Communications - Community Affairs

In response to requests from community members, governance groups and business leaders, the Board of Regents has changed the way it will hear from the public. Beginning in September 2016, the board will host a two-hour audio public testimony session the week prior to full board meetings. Public testimony will no longer be available during regular board meetings.

The chair will moderate the session in the same way as was done for face-to-face testimony, while a facilitated audio line will allow residents anywhere in the state to testify telephonically.

This change is important for extending stakeholders' opportunity for input and for time with the board. The evening hours will allow will have the opportunity to share their views and opinions with board members in a casual face-to-face setting. It is not formal public testimony, simply the opportunity for informal conversations with board members.
